Read that twice! 'Somebody' pay attention.

"For somebody to do well in school, somebody needs to make him go to bed on time and get a good 10 hours sleep. Someone must make him do his homework. Somebody must feed him breakfast in the morning and somebody must make him mind the teacher", said Williams. "if those things are not done, I don't care how much money you put in the school system, educations will not occur."

America's first next-gen nuclear facility

By Bill Gates | June 11, 2024

I was recently in Kemmerer, Wyoming, for the groundbreaking ceremony of the most advanced nuclear facility in the world: the first-ever Sodium plant. This cutting-edge project will bring safe, next-generation nuclear technology to life. And it represents a huge milestone for the local economy, America's energy independence, and our fight against climate change.

For decades, nuclear innovation was stalled due to regulatory hurdles, public perception concerns, and insufficient investment. But if we're going to achieve net-zero emissions by 2050 and avoid the worst effects of a warming planet, we're going to need nuclear power. That's why we founded TerraPower in 2008—to enable nuclear scientists to develop safer, more cost-effective, and more reliable nuclear technology. I've been supporting their innovative work ever since.

Nuclear energy has incredible potential to provide affordable, reliable, and carbon-free electricity to power our modern world. But unleashing that potential requires bold thinking and smart private-public partnerships like the one that made this Sodium plant possible. I'm thrilled to see construction underway and for the world to witness the power of this next-generation technology.

You can read more about this groundbreaking project, the instrumental partners involved, the science behind the Sodium reactor design, my thoughts on why nuclear is essential for solving climate change, and what comes next on Gates Notes now. I'll continue sharing updates as this amazing facility takes shape over the coming months and years.

As always, thanks for being an Insider.

Youth and family help with Klamath River Restoration which ended with indigenous science camp

“Klamath River Tribes, Save California Salmon, and the Klamath River Renewal Corporation (KRRC) wrapped up two months of youth and family focused field trips and events with an Indigenous Science Camp at the former Iron Gate Reservoir. The camp featured tours of the dam removal work and a removed dam, a camp out at a restoration site, and science and culture based activities such as bark skirt and plant-based medicine making, acorn processing, and traditional art creation. The camp came after the coalition hosted seven field trips for Klamath and Trinity River elementary and high school students. “It’s an astonishing accomplishment to have achieved dam removal on our precious Klamath River,” explained Taralyn Ipina, COO of the Yurok Tribe, who attended with her family. “It’s heartwarming to engage our youth with the monumental process. Seeing their eyes widen and their hearts strengthen is wonderful.” ... ”
