Artificial Intelligence Is Bringing Nuclear Power Back From The Dead — Maybe Even In CA

Energy demands from big tech, including for AI, has elected officials giving an old power source a second look. “Artificial intelligence is an energy hog, and every query to ChatGPT is like running a lightbulb for 20 minutes, a research scientist recently told NPR.....Artificial intelligence is so wasteful.....”

Due to the last dollar structure of the waiver during Academic Years 2021-22 and 2022-23, it is important to note that in both years there were waiver applicants who met all eligibility criteria but did not receive a waiver due to receipt of federal education benefits equal to or greater than the amount of fees charged to each student. In 2022-23 there were 50 students in this category, and in 2021-22 there were 24. Beginning in 2023-24, all eligible applicants received a waiver due to the discontinuation of the last dollar approach with the enactment of Assembly Bill 150.

Future Student Success Metrics

While not required by NRS 396.54495 for inclusion in this report, tracking student success metrics, such as fall-to-fall persistence and graduation, is one way to determine whether students are reaching their academic goals. Such data can also be a factor in determining whether additional supports are needed by students. NSHE has begun gathering the necessary data to do such an analysis for Native American Fee Waiver recipients, but due to waiver provisions that allow students who are not degree seeking to utilize the fee waiver for courses that are both credit-based and non-credit based, there are additional complexities that need to be accounted for in the data. NSHE will work on developing an appropriate framework for including student success metrics in future reports.

Conclusion

Approved by the Nevada Legislature during 2021 Session, the Native American Fee Waiver program was first implemented during the 2021-22 Academic Year. During that year, 140 students had $457,449 in fees waived, and 24 additional students qualified for the waiver but had fees paid by federal education benefits and therefore did not have fees waived under this program. During 2022-23, 174 students had $702,212 in fees waived, which is an increase of 53.5 percent over 2021-22, and an additional 50 students qualified for the waiver but had fees paid instead by federal education benefits. Over the two academic/fiscal years, this totals $1.16 million in forgone revenue for the NSHE institutions. With the Assembly Bill 150 expansions to the fee waiver as well as a growing awareness by students and families of this program, in 2023-24 486 students received a Native American Fee Waiver and the total dollars waived amounted to $2,205,061. This is a 179 percent increase in recipients and a 214 percent increase in dollars waived. Of the total Native American Fee Waiver cost for 2023-24, only $87,049 was forgone revenue thanks to the legislative appropriation in AB 150 and an allocation of ARPA dollars from the State. However, due to increasing utilization of the waiver, it is likely the AB 150 appropriation will cover less than 20% of the cost of the waiver in 2024-25.

According to the requirements of Senate Bill 72, during the 2023-24 Interim the Joint Interim Standing Committee on Education (COE) conducted a study concerning NSHE fee waivers. At its Work Session on August 22, 2024, the Committee voted to propose legislation unifying the conditions and requirements of NSHE fee waivers. In addition, a recommendation was included to encourage the Senate Committee on Finance and the Assembly Committee on Ways and Means of the 2025 Legislative Session to consider state funding support to offset the fee waiver costs should additional fee waiver programs be created or if student participation in current programs is expanded beyond current capacity.

President Grant's Third State of the Union Address 4 December 1871

“In Utah there still remains a remnant of barbarism, repugnant to civilization, to decency, and to the laws of the United States. Territorial officers, however, have been found who are willing to perform their duty in a spirit of equity and with a due sense of the necessity of sustaining the majesty of the law. Neither polygamy nor any other violation of existing statutes will be permitted within the territory of the United States. It is not with the religion of the self-styled Saints that we are now dealing, but with their practices. They will be protected in the worship of God according to the dictates of their consciences, but they will not be permitted to violate the laws under the cloak of religion.

It may be advisable for Congress to consider what, in the execution of the laws against polygamy, is to be the status of plural wives and their offspring. The propriety of Congress passing an enabling act authorizing the Territorial legislature of Utah to legitimize all children born prior to a time fixed in the act might be justified by its humanity to these innocent children. This is a suggestion only, and not a recommendation.

The policy pursued toward the Indians has resulted favorably, so far as can be judged from the limited time during which it has been in operation. Through the exertions of the various societies of Christians to whom has been intrusted the execution of the policy, and the board of commissioners authorized by the law of April 10, 1869, many tribes of Indians have been induced to settle upon reservations, to cultivate the soil, to perform productive labor of various kinds, and to partially accept civilization. They are being cared for in such a way, it is hoped, as to induce those still pursuing their old habits of life to embrace the only opportunity which is left them to avoid extermination.

I recommend liberal appropriations to carry out the Indian peace policy, not only because it is humane, Christian like, and economical, but because it is right.

I recommend to your favorable consideration also the policy of granting a Territorial government to the Indians in the Indian Territory west of Arkansas and Missouri and south of Kansas. In doing so every right guaranteed to the Indian by treaty should be secured. Such a course might in time be the means of collecting most of the Indians now between the Missouri and the Pacific and south of the British possessions into one Territory or one State. The Secretary of the Interior has treated upon this subject at length, and I commend to you his suggestions.

I renew my recommendation that the public lands be regarded as a heritage to our children, to be disposed of only as required for occupation and to actual settlers. Those already granted have been in great part disposed of in such a way as to secure access to the balance by the hardy settler who may wish to avail himself of them, but caution should be exercised even in attaining so desirable an object.

Educational interest may well be served by the grant of the proceeds of the sale of public lands to settlers. I do not wish to be understood as recommending in the least degree a curtailment of what is being done by the General Government for the encouragement of education.

The report of the Secretary of the Interior submitted with this will give you all the information collected and prepared for publication in regard to the census taken during the year 1870; the operations of the Bureau of Education for the year; the Patent Office; the Pension Office; the Land Office, and the Indian Bureau.”
